Updates and service improvements for our suppliers

Dear supplier, dear partner,

We are pleased to announce we are implementing Microsoft Dynamics 365, an enterprise resource planning (ERP) system on October 5, 2026.

This upgrade will bring many benefits including improved operational efficiency, enhanced data visibility and better collaboration. This transformation, focused on integration and data quality, will strengthen our ability to work alongside our suppliers and customers.

Important operational dates:

There will be a three-week period between September 24, 2026, and October 16, 2026, during which we will transition to the new system. During this period, you might not experience the same level of service from us as you are used to. Please consider this transition period in your planning. We will work with all suppliers to:

- Plan orders and deliveries (inbound and outbound) in advance to ensure a smooth transaction
- Change the forecasted volumes for October to August/beginning of September as we are temporarily expecting less output during the cut-over-period
- Build stock where possible in warehouses
- Adjust and/or postpone production where necessary

In preparation for this transition, please note:

We will be unable to send purchase orders during the transition period, and our fixed order moments may be impacted. There also will be increased truck traffic in and out in the weeks ahead and after the transition.

We also request suppliers to send us on time, even earlier, all relevant technical and business documents including invoices for deliveries close and before 24 September, which is our last standard receive date in current ERP.

We are committed to minimizing any potential impact on your business and thank you in advance for your understanding and cooperation. At Barentz, we look forward to this new phase and will be at your side to ensure that these changes enhance your experience and support your growth.

Thank you for your continued trust and cooperation.
